6. [REDACTED] Walter Reynolds, Senate Government Operations Committee staff, called to inquire if we had completed the paper on the retrieval of information. He pointed out they were going to galley proofs today or tomorrow and if we could get it up tomorrow would we advise since he will hold it for our part. He specifically pointed out that after galley proofs were run there would be a two-week time period for all contributors to advise in whatever way it was desired.

7. [REDACTED] Chairman Brooks of the House Committee on Aeronautics and Space has scheduled open hearings of the United States efforts in translation of foreign languages by machine methods for May 11, 12, 13, 16, and 17. Lt. Col. Francis J. Dillon, Jr., Staff Consultant to the Committee, has requested informally the name or names of Agency representatives who might appear at the hearings concerning Central Intelligence Agency activities in the field. The hearings will be conducted between the hours of 1000 and 1200 on the five mornings scheduled with the possibility that the representatives of National Science Foundation, Department of Commerce, and Library of Congress would appear on the first day; Central Intelligence Agency representatives and representatives of Georgetown University the second day; Department of the Army, National Bureau of Standards, Air Force, and other interested agencies following thereafter. Although the special subcommittee membership has not been established, it is advised that Representative Brooks will chair the Committee of some eight or nine persons himself. It was requested that the Agency representative be nominated by April 21.
